Pastor Speaks on Voices of Hope

"Christians are to be voices of hope," was the truth emphasized by Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church Sunday.

"True Christians have a very definite hope. It is based upon the sure and certain promises of God's word. In the Bible they are assured that Christ Jesus, God's Son, has atoned for all their sins, and through faith in Him all believers have the forgiveness of sins and everlasting life. So the Christian's hope is not based on what he does, but upon what God has done for him through His Son. This makes his hope definite and sure, just as sure as are the promises of God."

"This hope of theirs, the Christians should be ready to speak about to others. It will have a definite influence upon their actions and attitudes and may prompt some people to wonder and ask what it is that so affects their lives. Under all circumstances and at every opportunity the Christian should be "ready to give to every man that asketh him a reason of the hope that is in him." All he needs to do is speak out of the fulness of his heart in his usual way, and he will be a voice of hope to his hopeless fellowmen."

Sermon Delivered on 'True Christians'

"True Christians are the sons and daughters of God and live in a wonderful relation to Him," was the truth emphasized by Pastor Harold Brauer in his Sunday sermon in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church.

"Christians are called the sons or children of God in Romans 8, 14-17. They become this, not by birth or nature, but through faith in Christ Jesus, for the Bible says: 'Ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.' Those who are without this faith are merely the creatures of God.

"The Christian's evidence of being a child of God are that he is led by the Spirit of God to prefer to do what is right and pleasing to God; that he has been delivered from being afraid of God and approaches his loving God in prayer with boldness and confidence, having received the 'spirit of adoption'; that the Spirit of God works in him the conviction that he is a child of God; and that he is called upon to suffer with Christ.

"Being the sons or children of God, Christians are also 'heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ,' to the heavenly inheritance, an inheritance which the Bible has not fully described, but which it has told us will be a place of joy, glory, peace, pleasure, perfection, and praise. This heaven is the certain inheritance of everyone who is a child of God through faith in Christ Jesus."

Victory, Peace Held Gift of God

"Our victory and the resultant peace is the gift of God," stated Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday. He based his statement upon Psalm 46, verse 9: "He (God) maketh wars to cease unto the ends of the earth."

"There are some people who are not ready to subscribe to such a statement because they want men to receive at least part of the credit. It should be remembered that such a statement does not exclude men as agents of God's power. He used our fighting men, whom He guarded and protected; He used our laboring people and farmers and crowned their efforts so that they accomplished the miracle of production; He used our scientists, whom He endowed with wisdom and understanding to develop improvements in implements of war and to harness the forces of nature in the mighty atomic bomb. He used our allied nations to assist us in obtaining the victory. Without His help and power victory and peace would not be ours. Surely, we should say with our honorable president, that God gave us this victory."

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN SCHOOL ANNOUNCED!

Lutherans Will Open Grade School Sept. 17

St. Paul's Lutheran church, Twenty-eighth and Quincy, will open a weekday religious elementary school on Monday, Sept. 17, in the basement of the church.

Registration will be Friday, Sept. 14, from nine a. m. to four p. m.

Purpose of the school, according to Harold Brauer, pastor, is four-fold: "First, to assist parents to meet their God-given duty to teach the word of God to their children and to train them in godly living. Second, to use God's method in character training. Third, to teach the required secular subjects in the light of the Bible. Fourth, to provide an agency for the church's program of Christian education that surpasses all others used or thought of."

In addition to daily instruction in religion, a complete course in all required secular subjects will be offered for grades one to eight. Enrollment is open to everyone who desires this type of training for his children. All inquiries will be answered and all requests for enrollment will be carefully considered.

The school will be in charge of Martin B. Kirch, B. S., in Ed., a graduate of Concordia Teachers college at Seward, Neb. He comes from Los Angeles, where he taught grades five and six for the past two years. He had four years of experience previous to that in Kansas.

Physical equipment of the school will have been approved by the state superintendent of public instruction before opening day.

Pastor Speaks On New School

"The Lord promises to bless our school" was the theme emphasized by Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday, on the occasion of the installation of the teacher for the church's new grade school.

"When the risen Lord Jesus gave His great commission to His disciples, He not only taught them to make Christians of all nations by baptizing them, but He also taught them that teaching and training should follow the baptism. This He stated in the words: 'Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you.'

"Because of this instruction of the Lord, we believe that our undertaking to open a Christian grade school is definitely a part of the church's program of education. Therefore, also to such an undertaking the Lord's promise applies: 'Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.' In spite of discouragements, the members of the church should have the confidence that their Almighty Lord will bless this school.

"This same assurance applies to the teacher, upon whose shoulders falls the responsibility of guiding the affairs of this school. The Lord has promised to guide and direct him. In the face of difficulties and discouragements he, too, should have the confidence and trust that the gracious and mighty Lord Jesus will crown his efforts with success."

Pastor Talks on Use of Time

"Christians should make the proper use of their time on earth, by recognizing that their chief ambition should be to prepare for Heaven," emphasized Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church yesterday.

Speaking on the epistle for the day, Ephesians 5, 15-21, he declared Christians "should walk circumspectly, keeping their eyes open for possible dangers that would harm and destroy their faith. To that end they should use their time to acquire an ever better understanding of God's holy and righteous will as revealed in His law in the Bible, and of His good and gracious will as revealed in His gospel of salvation through Jesus Christ as taught in the Bible. This is done by studying the Bible at home and at church," the speaker said.

The pastor also warned against drunkenness, which is severely condemned in the Bible, and pointed out that "Christians ought rather seek the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, who will enable them to become ever more God-pleasing in their lives."

Finally, he urged that Christians ought always cultivate a thankful spirit toward God, the giver of all good gifts, and to that end bolster up their spirits and drive away the blues in time of sorrow and affliction by keeping a Christian song in the heart and a Christian hymn on the lips.

"The following of these admonitions would go a long way toward making the proper use of our time in making preparation for Heaven," he concluded.

Sermon Relates Pastor's Aims

"A Christian pastor, who is what the name implies, is deeply interested in the spiritual welfare of the people of his congregation," state Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday. "This is true in spite of opinions to the contrary, which believe that they are interested in their personal welfare or glory only.

"A faithful pastor will thank God when the gospel of Jesus Christ, which he is privileged to proclaim as God's messenger, produces blessed fruits. He gladly gives God the glory when His people cling firmly to God's message of love and grace in Christ for their own salvation and are earnestly concerned about the spiritual welfare of their fellowmen," he continued.

"The Christian pastor is also hopeful and confident for the future spiritual well-being of his people, because he knows that God who hath begun a good work in them will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ. The faithful Lord will preserve them in the saving faith unto their end and will continue to make their faith fruitful in every good word and work," the pastor continued.

He concluded by saying, "the true pastor will also pray to God for his people that He might bless them with a deeper knowledge of His love and grace, and with a resultant growth in love and good works to the 'praise and glory of God.'"

Sermon Relates Faith Results

"The just shall live by faith," was the truth emphasized in one of the sermons delivered Sunday by Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church. He stated that only the just can live with God eternally. "Any unrighteousness whatever separates man from God. To live in God's presence a person must be perfectly holy. Cursed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law to do them. Deuteronomy 27, 26. 'Be ye therefore perfect,' says Jesus, Matthew 5, 48. So only the just or righteous can live with God. "Still the Bible declares: 'There is not a just man upon earth that doeth good and sinneth not.' Ecclesiastes 7, 20. No person is just nor can make himself just. 'By the deeds of the law shall no flesh be justified.' Romans 3, 20." "There is only one way to become just in God's sight and live, and that is by accepting the righteousness which God has provided through the sacrifice of His Son, Jesus Christ; by faith in His atonement. Whoever believes in Jesus Christ has forgiveness of sins; and he that has forgiveness is justified before God; and he that is justified shall live, or have everlasting life," he concluded.

Victorious Faith Told in Sermon

"A true Christian faith, one which trusts God as a loving father and believes in His promise of salvation through His Son, Jesus Christ, is a victorious faith," stated Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday.

Basing his remarks on the story of blind Bartimaeus in Mark 10, the pastor continued, "like Bartimaeus, true Christians today will have the courage to speak of Jesus Christ as the Son of God and the promised Savior of all men, even though many about them regard him as nothing more than a great prophet, or miracle-worker, or example for godly living. They will not be discouraged from turning to their loving Lord in prayer in the day of need and trouble, regardless how many people about them sneer at prayer, or maintain that it is useless, or argue that we are not worthy to approach the mercy-seat of God. Neither will true Christians cease their pleadings for help, even when the Lord puts their faith to a test by delaying His answer or seemingly turning a deaf ear to their cries."

He concluded by saying that "any true believer in Christ can win such victories of faith, if he will but cling to God's many encouraging and comforting promises."

Cheerful Giver Found Blessed

"Christians are to give cheerfully for various charitable purposes and the work of the church at home and abroad," stated Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday.

"A cheerful giver," stated the pastor as he based his remarks on 2 Corinthians 9:7, "is one who, when the needs of suffering fellowmen or the needs of the church are brought to his attention, is prompt to do something about it. A cheerful giver does not need to be approached with a special plea for a contribution before he will act. As a rule, such a cheerful giver will bring his contribution, not waiting to be asked for it. Such cheerful givers God loves; He is pleased with their gifts."

"Yet," concluded the pastor, "there is only one thing that will prompt a Christian to be or to become a cheerful giver, and that is a knowledge of and sincere faith in the fact that God first loved him in His Son, Christ Jesus. The more a person realizes what it means to be redeemed by Christ; the more he becomes aware of what this Savior accomplished for Him by His suffering and death; the more he appreciates what it means to have forgiveness of sins and the hope of everlasting life through the merits of Jesus Christ; so much the more will that person be filled with a love toward God and his fellowman, and so much the more will he be ready to give cheerfully for the Lord's work and the relief of human need."

The pastor also told of the dire need in the devastated countries of Europe and encouraged his people to support the current clothing drive in the church and the "Victory Collection of Canned Foods" sponsored by UNRRA.

Pastor Speaks on Savior's Coming

"The Redeemer of all mankind has come, is a truth which Zachariah, the father of Christ's forerunner, John the Baptist, proclaimed in a prophecy, spoken shortly before the birth of the Savior," stated Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday.

"The Lord hath visited and redeemed His people," stated Zachariah, as he spoke by the power of the Holy Ghost and declared the purpose of the Redeemer to be the salvation of all men, "so give the knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of sins through the tender mercy of God."

"This message, that the Savior has come, was proclaimed by John the Baptist in keeping with the purpose for which He was sent, as stated: 'Thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare His ways.' So the message of Christ's gospel is proclaimed to this day by faithful preachers of God's word, telling sinners of their salvation through the remission of their sins made possible through the tender mercy of God," continued the pastor.

"This message of salvation through God's mercy in Christ Jesus is intended for all who sit 'in darkness and in the shadow of death.' We Christians have been commissioned by the Lord to bring this message to all nations. And in support of the testimony of our lips there must be the testimony of a godly conduct, a life that grows out of faith in the Savior and plainly tells others that the Redeemer has come," concluded the pastor.

Kingdom Is Here, Pastor States

"The kingdom of Christ is here now, but its coming or presence is not visible to the eyes of men, nor does it attract their attention, because it is in the hearts of men," said Pastor Harold Brauer in St. Paul's Lutheran church Sunday, as he spoken on Luke 17:20-30.

"Christ's kingdom is established upon the truth of His suffering and death for the sins of mankind. That had to happen so there could be a kingdom of grace on earth, and a kingdom of glory in heaven. Whoever believes that Jesus Christ has come to redeem him from sin and death is in the Redeemer's kingdom of grace now. During such a person's lifetime there may be days of suffering and affliction, which make him long for the Redeemer's return in glory, but he will not see that glory until the day of judgment comes. Then Christ will return visibly and so rapidly that the whole world will witness His coming at the same time.

"However, the sad feature is that conditions in the world will be very much like they were in the days of Noah and Lot. In spite of God's warnings sounded by His faithful messengers, the majority of people will not heed them, but will keep on centering their hearts and interest in nothing but temporal things, such as buying and selling, marrying and giving in marriage."
